Public hearing set on Bay street renumbering

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Plans to rename a few streets, and possibly renumber hundreds of addresses, are up for a public hearing in Bay St. Louis on Tuesday.

The "911 address enhancement" matter has been under consideration by city officials for months, based on recent study of problems that confront emergency personnel and delivery trucks in the city.

Fire Chief Robert Gavagnie said Friday the current plan focuses on the duplicative names of Kellar, Keller streets, the existence of three different Union streets, and the confusion caused by the "north and south" designations of Beach Boulevard, Touline and Second streets.

The "north" or "south" problem probably will be resolved by making sure that all addresses with those street names are designated properly in the 911 address databank, he said, rather than renaming or renumbering those streets to deal with the confusion.

But the Kellar, Keller and Union streets problem is another question that council will be asked to tackle by renaming. One Union Street runs alongside St. Stanislaus. Another lies off Necaise Street, and a third one is found off the Old Spanish Trail in the Housing Authority area.

Meanwhile, there's the question of out-of-sequence street addresses. The city could opt to re-number property every 25-feet of frontage, as a consultant recommends, or every 50-feet of frontage, an alternative also on the table. Another option would be dealing with confusing sequences of street addresses on a case-by-case basis.

Gavagnie and Police Chief Frank McNeil, both members of the area 911 Commission, are expected to be at the public hearing Tuesday.

The fire chief said none of the Signs, banners creating Bay officials woes

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Bay St. Louis City officials have been asked for a variance to allow a sign that's more than six times as large as local law allows.

The request comes amid an escalating disagreement over sign regulations in the city. Proposed revisions to the city's sign ordinance are up for a public hearing June 1, but those proposed changes don't apply to the new case that's cropped up.

The city's Planning and Zoning Commission is set to hear a new variance request from owners of 1st Choice Home Furnishings, which recently opened in the shopping center at Highway 90 and Dunbar Avenue.

The company attached a sign without a permit or prior approval of the building inspection department, says Building Official Bill Carrigee. He said when he served the business with an official notice of a violation of the ordinance, the company officials said they weren't aware of the sign ordinance.

Rather than remove the sign, Carrigee said the owners asked if they could pay whatever fees may be due to keep it in place. To do so, the firm needs a recommendation from the Planning and Zoning Commission for a variance, and approval of City Council.

Under the city sign ordinance, the Bay couple launches Animal Shelter drive

BY ED LEPOMA
John and Dee Ketcherside of Bay St. Louis are waging a campaign to raise money for new pen gates at the Hancock County Animal Shelter in Waveland.

The Ketchersides recently adopted a cat at the shelter and had the opportunity to meet with the staff.

"The staff are wonderful, caring people, and the facility was nice and clean," the couple wrote in a letter to the Echo. However, the shelter is in dire need of new gates for the animal pens. The current gates are rusted at the bottoms, leaving gaps. There have been some occasions during the night when some animals have gotten out of their pens."

Although the shelter receives yearly funding from Hancock County and the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, the couple points out that most of the funds are used to purchase food and medicine for the abandoned animals, and "there is little left to make much needed repairs."

The Ketchersides said there were 24 pen gates at the shelter, and the cost to replace them is about $100 each. They said, if the shelter moves into a new home at some time in the future, the gates could be moved to the new location.

"Our plea to you is to donate whatever amount you feel you can for this worthy project. Anything that you can give will be helpful," the Ketchersides said.

The couple also contacted Waveland city attorney Ronnie

Contaminated soil cleanup planned at Ansley site

BY ED LEPOMA
A spokesman for Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company confirmed this week that the firm plans to contract in August to clean up contaminated soils found at its substation in the Ansley community and off-site. Mel Scott, media relations for El Paso Energy Corp. in Houston, spoke with the Echo after an announcement was placed in the newspaper recently that the firm planned to embark on a cleanup.

The legal announcement notified the public that the plans were on file for review at the main library in Hancock County. It also gives citizens until June 1 to comment on the cleanup plans.

Scott estimates the cleanup could cost in the neighborhood of $390,000, and a local contractor would be selected, with work to begin in August. The cleanup, estimated to take about one month, will be monitored by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Region 4 office in Atlanta.

A review of the Community Relations Plan and the Cleanup Plan shows that the project is being conducted under an Administrative Order of Consent signed between Tennessee Gas and the EPA in August of 1994, but studies, both on site and off-site, have been taking place at the Ansley substation since 1987.

The Ansley substation is a natural gas compression station solely designed to compress gas and send the gas downstream through the pipeline that runs from Tennessee to south Louisiana. It is a 20-acre site, located 10 miles south from the Gulf of Mexico on Lower Bay Road, eight miles south of Hwy. 90 and 12 miles west of Bay St. Louis.

On site, there are eight gas compressor reciprocating engines and turbine engines housed in two commercial buildings.

Between the 1950's and the 1970's, Tennessee Gas used Pydraul, which until 1972 was a lubricating fluid containing Polychlorinated Biphenyls or PCB's. The fluid was used to lubricate certain air compression systems at the station, but was reformulated in 1972 and no longer contained PCB's.

In 1994, Tennessee Gas decontaminated the compression air system, purged and dried the valves and tie-in lines, while selecting the ENVIRON Corp., of Princeton, N.J. to continue and expand extensive soil sampling and groundwater sampling on and off-site.

The results showed no groundwater contamination on or off-site, but consultants recommended that approximately 27 tons of on-facility surface soil needed to be removed. PCB contamination was found in soils surrounding the equipment garage and the wash and grease rack area.

In addition, consultants have recommended the removal of 300 tons of contaminated soil located in ditches running along Ansley Road.

Scott said all the contaminated soils will be disposed of at an EPA-approved landfill, and soils will be backfilled and replaced with clean fill.

Governor signs absentee reform

BY ED LEPOMA

Secretary of State Eric Clark said this week that the absentee ballot reforms recently signed by Gov. Kirk Fordice is "a strong bill," and will go a long way to prevent fraudulent voting.

House Bill 914 brings more accountability at each step of the absentee ballot process. It also restores the right of disabled citizens to receive assistance when voting absentee. It has been endorsed by the Mississippi Circuit Clerks Association, Election Commissioners Association of Mississippi, and the Coalition of Citizens with Disabilities.

"We were successful in passing this bill because we built a bipartisan coalition," Clark said. "Regardless of party or race or region, legislators recognize that we need accountability in the absentee voting process to reduce the potential for fraud."

The bill was sponsored by Representatives Ed Blackmon (D-Canton) and Bill Denny (R-Jackson). Senate Election Chair Alice Harden (D-Jackson) handled the bill on the Senate floor.

Among the provisions targeting voter fraud:

- Campaign workers may not be paid "by the ballot." This would outlaw campaign workers from being paid based on the number of absentee ballot applications they collect.

- Only people who really need help should receive assistance in marking absentee ballots — the blind, illiterate, or physically disabled. "Assistance" provided to other voters often robs the voter of his or her privacy, and may result in intimidation or outright fraud.

- Only people who request an absentee ballot should receive one. This would help keep campaign workers from distributing applications to voters who have no plans to vote absentee.

- Candidates may not witness absentee ballot applications or absentee ballot envelopes. This is a further protection from intimidation.

- Anyone providing assistance to an absentee voter must give his or her name on the ballot envelope. This would provide evidence to law enforcement authorities in investigating suspicious ballots or potential fraud.

If the bill is signed by the Governor, it must be approved by the U.S. Department of Justice before taking effect.

New WIC regulations set

New federal regulations require more information about identity, residence and income from individuals who seek WIC services -- that's jump-started training and information initiatives for program providers and participants.

WIC stands for Women, Infants and Children. WIC is the Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children whose lead agency here is Mississippi State Department of Health.

Participants are pregnant women, new mothers and breast-feeding women, infants and children up to five years of age who have nutrition-related risk conditions.

The Health Department's already training employees to help program participants meet the new requirements for proof of identity, residence and income.

And public health workers are developing information materials so clients will have handy written guidelines to help gather and present new documents required. Consumers with questions should call the local county health department.

"We're encouraging our staff to embrace this change toward better program management and improved service to our clients," said Curtis Jordan, director of the WIC Program.

"And we'll call on WIC families to help prevent traffic jams at the WIC certification desks by bringing the information required to their appointments for WIC certification," he said. "We're doing several things to help them know what they need to bring: publicity through the mass media, posters at the WIC Food Distribution Centers, and flyers in their monthly food packages, for example. We want this to be a smooth process."

Applicants for the WIC program will need to show documents about three factors for consideration:

- Identity -- a valid driver's license, current work or school ID card, certified birth certificate, or current military identification. One of the items.

- Residence -- a recent water, electricity, cable television, gas, or telephone bill, a current rental agreement, or a valid driver's license. One of the items.

- Income -- Medicaid card, TANF or food Stamp eligibility notice, recent pay stubs, recent tax return, or a letter from the current employer. One item for each family member.

WIC clients apply to participate in the program at county health departments, rural primary care centers, some physicians' offices, and in some hospitals.

The individual's physician, nurse, or nutritionist decides if she and her children have a nutritional or medical risk. Some examples are iron-poor blood, low eight and having babies close together.

Once certified, the family gets individual nutrition counseling, nutrition for pregnancy and breast-feeding, nutrition for infants from birth to one year, and nutrition for children from one to five years.

Participants can learn how to use the special WIC foods and how to plan healthy meals -- they can learn to build good food habits for a lifetime.

During FY 1998 Mississippi WIC distributed 1,180,798 monthly food packages at an average cost of $29.38 per package. Mississippi's package cost is eight percent below the national average of $31.70.

The savings is attributed to buying in quantity and competitive bid and distributing the food directly to participants form food distribution centers located in every county.

Operating in all 82 counties, WIC served an average of 98,400 participants each month. The program serves 66 percent of the potentially eligible population.

WIC serves 100 percent of eligible babies, age one year and under, which represents more than 73 percent of all babies born in the state. Some 30,661 babies get help from WIC.

WIC provides a special breast-feeding information and support program to help women make informed choices about how to feed their babies.

The program includes up-to-date information on breast-feeding, prenatal classes and support groups, peer counselors, consultation with a lactation specialist for special questions, and free use of breast devices as needed.

WIC also offers special food packages with tuna, carrots and extra cheese for mothers who totally breast-feed.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Just taking a drive about the area and one will realize this is the year when state, district and county officials are elected to serve us for the next four years.

We have received a news release from the three-member elected Mississippi Transportation Commission reporting that they have voted unanimously to begin strictly enforcing regulations pertaining to political sign advertising.

As we are aware, Hancock County is criss-crossed with highways.

The Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) will begin removing signs posted on highway rights-of-way beginning June 1.

I realize that political signs are very expensive, so candidates need to make sure their posters and signs are not on highway property.

MDOT will collect the illegally posted signs and maintenance will hold the salvagable signs for a reasonable period.

If I am not mistaken, both the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland have ordinances about the posting of signs.

I realize there are many residents who are calling candidates to place signs, and this is good, but they need to be placed on their properties and not on state or city properties.

On Thursday afternoon I received a telephone call from West Hancock Volunteer Fire Chief Sam Bailey, who said he received at first what he thought may be a strange request, then again after thinking about it, it may not be a bad idea.

A person called and wanted to know if the Pearlinton Fire Department would have a hospital bed a member of their family could use for rehabilitation.

Bailey feels that there may be some residents about county who may have a hospital bed sitting idle and not being used.

If someone has a hospital bed not in use, his department will it pickup, Bailey says, clean it up, and deliver it to the Pearlinton resident.

Whenever they are finished with it, they will collect it and return it to the owner, or if they want to make a donation to the fire department that would be great, too.

If you can help, call Fire Chief Bailey at 533-0050. P.S. West Hancock County Fire Department has gotten good use out of several electric wheel chairs which were sitting idle at several folks' homes.

Congratulations are in order for Leo Seal Jr., of Bay St. Louis, who is to receive an honorary doctorate from Mississippi State University.

Seal, who is CEO of Hancock Bank, John H. Bryan Jr., West Point, CEO of Sara Lee Corporation and Jerry Charles F. Sumrall, dean of engineering at MSU, are the first to receive an honorary degree from Mississippi State.

Seal is to receive the Doctorate of Public Service degree. As many of you know, he has been active on a local, state and national level working for the advancement of the Mississippi Gulf Coast and State of Mississippi.

I feel no one from our area is more deserving than Seal to receive such a great honor from Mississippi State University.

The St. Stanislaus' 1949 boxing team captured the state title in boxing. The SSC boxers who captured state titles were Gene Schwartz, Tony Stimmel, Paul Palermo, Jake Morreale, Jimmy Curran, and Johnny Labruza. In the 1940's boxing was one of the best attended sporting high school events at St. Stanislaus and Bay High. Between the two Bay schools, came 65-75 percent of the state champions. Members of the boxing team included, front row from left, Jimmy Curran, Gene Schwartz, Bobby Mills, Paul Palermo, and Tony Stimmel; second row, Jim Whitmann, manager; Johnny Labruza, Walter Powell, Joe David, Frank Dominic, Don Haas, Jake Morreale and A.J. Chiniche. The team's coach was Dick Thames. Palermo, who submitted the photo added that Stanislaus repeated as state champs in 1950 and 1951, then boxing was dropped in Mississippi high schools. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Candidates' signs considered litter by Bay resident

Dear Editor:

I have noticed an increase in vertical litter a/k/a, campaign signs on the rights-of-way on most streets and highways throughout Hancock County since it is an election year.

Do the candidates think we are stupid? It is easy to see whose signs are in people's yards or by businesses, and that's fine, but candidates who slap signs all over telephone poles, on trees, in ditches and street corners insult those of us with half a brain.

I'm sure name recognition is important in an election, but I have taken note of the people who are throwing their signs all over and seriously considering not voting for them.

I saw on the local news that the Highway Department is going to pull up all of the political signs on the rights-of-way starting June 1. I hope the cities and county will follow suit.

Sincerely,
Karen Hulse
Bay St. Louis

Reader says candidates need to pay attention to petitioners

Dear Editor:

I would like to point out something to the politicians on the Hancock County Solid Waste Authority. Over 5,700 signatures were verified on a petition asking for a referendum about the mega-dump in the Buffer Zone.

In 1995 just over 7,600 people voted in the local election for the same offices that are up for grabs now. There is a lot of competition this time.

I have heard that three of the members of the Solid Waste

Authority were still for the dump and three are against it.

I think the three who are still for the dump ought to mull over the statistics.

Even though the 5,700 signatures, which easily translates into 5,700 votes, would be divided somewhat by districts there is still the possibility of a great loss of support. Think about it!

Sincerely,
M. G. Gilbert
Bay St. Louis

Candidate signs to be removed from highways

During its regular semi-monthly meeting, the Mississippi Transportation Commission voted unanimously to begin strictly enforcing regulations pertaining to political advertising on state maintained rights-of-way.

The three-member elected Transportation Commission is comprised of commissioners Zack Stewart, Northern District; Dick Hall, Central District; and Wayne Brown, Southern District.

"Individuals with political signs posted on Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) rights-of-way will be given until June 1 to remove them," Hall said. "After that time, MDOT forces will begin removing political advertisements on a regular basis."

The commissioners asked that MDOT's maintenance forces hold the salvagable signs for a reasonable period of time before disposing of them. Sign owners may retrieve the signs from local MDOT maintenance shops without penalty.

Often political advertisements are erected on wire stands, which could become a safety hazard when mowing.

In addition, most political advertisements are now constructed using non-biodegradable materials. These materials, when left on state maintained rights of way, become an additional tax burden to the people of Mississippi who must pay to have them removed.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By State Senator Thad Cochran

Cochran pledges Congress' support to provide necessary funding for National Guard

Senator Thad Cochran pledged his assistance to ensure that Congress provides the necessary funding to protect the men and women serving in the Army and Air National Guard units as they are sent on missions in Kosovo and elsewhere to protect the interests of the United States. Cochran's remarks came during a Defense Appropriations hearing held today to discuss the fiscal year 2000 budget for the National Guard.

We understand the stresses that you are under now trying to match the needs that you have with the funding available under this president's budget. We're pleased to see some increases in the budget this year to reflect the growing importance of air and army national guard units," Cochran said to senior National Guard officials. Cochran assured the senior military officials at the hearing that "we're going to do everything we can to be sure that Congress responds to ensure that you have the funds you need to do your job."

Cochran acknowledged that the Guard commanders were busy complying with the call up order issued by the Department of Defense and mentioned that there were already Guard and reserve forces supporting the Kosovo mission, including the 186th Air Refueling Wing based in Meridian.

The Senator questioned Lt. General Russell C. Davis, Chief of the National Guard Bureau, about what the Guard was doing to assist families and employers when National Guard and reserve personnel are called to duty. Davis responded that they were holding seminars and working to educate families and employers about what is happening and why it is necessary to have their employees away, while providing suggestions about how to handle an employee's absence.

Cochran also discussed the planned engagement of the multi-purpose range at Camp Shelby and questioned Major General Roger C. Schultz, Director of the Army National Guard, about the importance of the improved range to Guard readiness and urged the Committee to support the needed funding for completion of the project.

General Schultz said that the ranges at Camp Shelby are considered a "treasure" in terms of resources for training soldiers. He said that the Guard Bureau is working on phase three of the project and that the environmental impact statement was completed.

Cochran also discussed the timetable for deployment of the new C-17 aircraft to the Mississippi Air National Guard's 172nd Airlift Wing in Jackson, which will be the first guard unit in the country to receive the aircraft. He questioned the Director of the Air National Guard, Major General Paul A. Weaver, about the possibility that the C-17's would be delivered earlier than expected. General Weaver assured the Senator that the Guard is preparing to accept the C-17's, not only on time but possibly ahead of schedule.

Registration begins for Hancock Library's Summer Reading Program

Registration for the Hancock County Library System's 1999 Summer Reading Program will begin Monday, May 17, according to David Woodburn, library system public services coordinator.

"Mississippi Magic" is the theme for this year's program, which is open to children and young adults, pre-school age through eighth grade. Programs and activities will begin Tuesday, June 1.

Programs will be held Tuesdays at 10:30 a.m. at the Waveland Library; Wednesdays at 10:30 a.m. at the Bay St. Louis Library; Thursdays at 10:30 a.m. at the Kiln Library; and Fridays at 10 a.m. at the Pearlinton Public Library.

Each registrant will receive a reading record, book bag and pencil with which to record books read, and those who complete the program will receive a certificate.

Awards and certificates will be presented the week of July 6. A library card is required to check out all books, which may be checked out at any of the library system's four branches.

To register, children should go to the library branch nearest them, and then visit a branch at least four times during the program and check out at least six books between June 1 and July 2.

To validate each visit, each reading record must be stamped. Merit stamps will be awarded for every five books read beyond the basic goal of six books.

A display of space suits and information about space, a visit from the Mississippi Sea Wolves, fish prints, storytellers, and a bicycle safety are just some of the programs and activities scheduled.

For information, contact Woodburn or Adrienne Bradley, Bay St. Louis Library, 467-5282; Evelyn Necaise, Waveland Library, 467-9240; Sandra Ladner, Kiln Library, 255-1724; or Caprice Smith, Pearlinton Library 533-0755.

Boat donated

Cubans being detained at Hancock County Jail for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service donated this beautifully crafted wooden boat that was auctioned off at the recent Hope Haven Extravaganza.

Extravaganza nets Hope Haven $10,000

BY ED LEPOMA

The recent Hope Haven Extravaganza, hosted by Casino Magic, brought in $10,000 for the local children's shelter, according to Terry Latham, director.

The event featured Kings and Queens from various Coast Carnival Krewe, who paraded, threw beads and issued a joint Royal Decree against child abuse.

Entertainment featured the spectacular Silver City Band, Jennifer Morales, a local singing sensation, who performed at last year's event, and the Arabesque teen dancers under the direction of Miranda Compretta.

Sixteen-year-old Sarah Caliva from Diamondhead, moved the guests to tears with her rendition of "Pity all the Children," a song about child abuse composed specifically for the event.

Krewe participants included: the Krewe of Gemini, Krewe of Selene, Krewe of El-Mar, Krewe of Venus, Krewe of Orange Grove, and Krewe of Kamehameha.

Certificates of appreciation were presented to Karen Petit and Rose Hobbs as volunteers of the year, and a special award went to Terri Downie of Diamondhead for helping to raise almost $50,000 for Hope Haven over the last four years.

Mary Carpenter, Hope Haven vice-president thanked many supporters for their help. "Casino Magic gives so much back to the local community through hosting many charity events, such as this, and some of their staff worked that night without pay just to help out," said Carpenter.

"Local businesses, such as D and K Quick Stops, Park Ten Lanes, Bay City Grill and Carole's Old Towne donated food, and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department pitched in and helped in many ways," she added.

One of the most unusual items donated for the silent auction was a five-foot-long model boat, constructed by Cubans being held for the U.S. Immigration Service in the county jail. It was donated, "In the Memory of Jolene," the wife of one of the men.

Popular Springs Lake Gulf of Mexico Project

The city took some flak for buying a five-acre hole in the ground, but Poplarville Alderman John Grant had a vision of a community fishing lake, so a hole in the ground made perfect sense to him and other city officials.

That vision is now a reality and Poplar Springs Lake is open to the public and a case study for environmental efficiency working in concert with economic growth.

Though not officially opened until May 15, according to Grant, the lake has already been put to good use by biology students at Pearl River Community College, where Grant is a physics professor and department chair.

The students have conducted several field lab exercises. Grant said the city hopes eventually to build a paved jogging or walking track around the lake so the community can enjoy yet another facet of the project, and the local Boy Scout troop is discussing the feasibility of establishing a nature trail.

But perhaps the greatest fringe benefit of the lake project is the environmental example it sets. As a result of efforts from the Gulf of Mexico Program at the John C. Stennis Space Center, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Natural Resources Conservation Service, the State of Mississippi's Department of Wildlife Fisheries and Parks, the city of Poplarville, and Pearl River County, the Poplar Springs Lake features a dual cell wetlands filtration system.

The filtration system, funded by a $21,000 grant from the Gulf of Mexico Program and designed by NRCS engineers, allows solid materials to settle and removes dissolved pollutants before the runoff enters the lake.

And, through the lake is approximately 50 miles north of the Gulf of Mexico, the five states bordering the gulf benefit from improved water quality.

Historic Preservation meet set

The Mississippi Historic Preservation Professional Review Board will meet May 20 at 1 p.m. in the second-floor conference room of the Charlotte Capers Archives and History Building in Jackson.

At this meeting, various properties around the state will be considered for a recommended listing in the National Register of Historic Places.

The resulting recommendations will be forwarded to the United States Department of the Interior in Washington, D.C. for a final review.

The Department of Archives and History is the official State Historic Preservation Office in Mississippi and handles all requests for National Register information and assistance.

The Charlotte Capers Archives and History Building is located south of the Old Capitol at 1000 South State Street. For information, call 359-6940.

ty since the streams leading from the lake flow into the Hobolochitto, then the Pearl River, and in turn the Gulf of Mexico.

"This project shows how small efforts benefit the larger picture of the Gulf," said Bryon Griffith of Waveland, the Gulf of Mexico Program deputy director.

"Residents of the five Gulf Coast states are, after all, one community with only one Gulf to protect. What happens off the coast of Mississippi is important to the coast of Florida, Alabama, Louisiana and Texas, and what happens in those waters is important and has an effect on Mississippi."

According to Griffith, the project meets one of the program's goals of maintaining and improving Gulf habitats that support living resources. "Specifically, it responds to our objective of protecting and restoring key Gulf habitats, including coastal wetlands, submerged aquatic vegetation, important upland areas, and marine and offshore areas," he said.

David Smith of NRCS explained that the upper cell of the filtration system catches sediment and dirt while the lower system consists of a variety of hydric plants which filter the water before it goes into the lake.

NRCS designed the lake structure and the principal spillway, as well as the actual wetlands filtration system, which was completed May 5, 1998. They also provided engineering and surveying capabilities at no charge to the city.

According to Grant, the project truly was a partnership. The Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks Department contributed $10,000 to the project and helped the city develop a management plan.

The department also stocked the lake with fish. Pearl River county also contributed $10,000 and the use of county equipment. The city of Poplarville made the initial land purchase at a cost of about $12,000.

Grant said construction of the lake began in the summer of 1996.

The property was formerly an ugly excavation site resulting from when the Mississippi Department of Transportation relocated Hwy. 26 through the city," he said. "We bought the eyesore from the highway project contractor and took some public heat for buying what was essentially considered a hole in the ground. But to build a lake, a hole in the ground is exactly what you need."

The lake is located just off I-59 on Hwy. 26 within the city limits of Poplarville — about 22 miles north of Picayune.

The Gulf of Mexico Program is underwritten by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and is a non-regulatory, inclusive consortium of state and federal government agencies, and representatives of the business and agricultural community, fishing industry, scientists, environmentalists, and community leaders from all five Gulf Coast states.

The Gulf Program seeks to improve the environmental health of the Gulf in concert with economic development

THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, MAY 16, 1999-11A

Alegria, Cirque du Soleil's internationally-renowned show opens May 20 at Beau Rivage

The international performance arts troupe, Cirque du Soleil, will introduce their unique style of entertainment at the new Beau Rivage resort on the Mississippi Gulf Coast in Biloxi, with the captivating production of Alegria.

The show, which dazzled three million spectators in Europe, North America, Japan and Hong Kong during its five-year tour, will find a permanent home at Mirage Resorts' newest property on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. The show will premiere in the 1,550-seat Beau Rivage theatre May 20.

Alegria, a Spanish word expressing elation, joy and jubilation, is Cirque du Soleil's eighth production. The show mesmerizes with a dazzling display of skill, strength and speed with awe-inspiring acrobatics, flamboyant costumes, brilliant choreography and an award-winning original score. The international cast of 52 performers and musicians come from 13 countries.

Franco Dragone, who has created 10 of Cirque du Soleil's productions, directs Alegria. Other members of the creative team include director of creation Gilles Ste-Croix, costume designer Dominique Lemieux, choreographer Debra Brown, lighting designer Luc Laforêt, set designer Michel Crete and sound designer Guy Desrochers.

The design concept of the theatre at Beau Rivage is created by Michel Crete in collaboration with the architects of Sceno Plus. The soundtrack of composer Rene Dupere's original score has sold more than one million copies.

Cirque du Soleil was founded in 1984 and has grown into an award-winning, international performance arts company with six shows currently performing around the world.

There are three permanent shows presented at Bellagio and Treasure Island in Las Vegas and Walt Disney World Resort in Orlando.

Currently, there are three productions touring North America, Europe and the Asia/Pacific region. To date, the company has created 10 productions that have thrilled more than 17 million spectators around the world.

The presentation of Alegria at Beau Rivage will be the fourth joint venture between Cirque du Soleil and Mirage Resorts. Nouvelle Experience began the partnership in 1992 when it was presented in the white and gold Big Top on the grounds of The Mirage in Las Vegas. The critically acclaimed Mystere has performed at Treasure Island since 1993 and "O" has been playing to rave reviews at Bellagio since October 1998.

Located on the beautiful sand beaches on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, Mirage Resorts' $600 million Beau Rivage is one of the finest resorts in the Southeast. Beau Rivage features 1,780 luxurious guest rooms, including 70 elegant suites, 12 sumptuous restaurants, a full-service health spa and a beauty salon, 50,000 square feet of banquet and meeting space and all of the excitement of a world-class casino.

Tickets for Alegria may be purchased in advance by calling (888) 566-7469 or (228) 386-7777. Prices are $40 for adults and $25 for children 12 and under, plus tax.

Performances will be held Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday at 8 p.m., Friday and Saturday at 7:30 and 10:30 p.m. The theatre will be dark on Tuesdays.

Hank Williams Festival scheduled for June 4-5

Hank Williams Sr. was a man whose music was loved by many. His ability to paint pictures using words and music immortalized him to country, pop and rock fans throughout the world.

The weekend of June 4-5, Hank Sr.'s boyhood home of Georgiana comes alive as nearly 15,000 fans are expected to converge on the Hank Williams Park, located behind the singer's boyhood home and museum for the 20th annual Salute to a Legend.

Featured entertainers at this year's festival will be his daughter, Jett Williams, John Anderson, Billy Joe Royal, Gene Watson and Rock Killough's Dixie Flyers. In addition to the on-stage entertainers, the national finals of the Hank Williams Song

Writing contest will be held June 3 at 6:30 p.m.

Jett Williams was born just five days after the death of her father and was adopted by Hank's mother who raised her until her death. Since her singing debut in 1989, Jett has performed at hundreds of venues throughout the world.

Last year at the 19th annual festival, she drew several standing ovations: from the crowd as she and her band cut loose with lots of Hank's original songs.

Gene Watson, who will perform Friday night has been called a "singer's singer." His latest CD, "Good Ole Days" has won critical acclaim from all country music fans.

The Hank Williams Park and Museum, the site of the festival is located one mile east of I-65 on Hwy. 106 (Exit 114). Festival activities begin Thursday at 6 p.m. with the Hank Williams Song-Writing contest.

During the festival fans will be able to meet and listen to several members of Hank's band, The Drifting Cowboys. Band members that are scheduled to appear this year are Clent Holmes, Braxton Schufert, Pee Wee Moutrie, Lum York and Bernice Turner.

Friday schedule: Music starts at 4 p.m., featuring local and regional singers and bands; barbecue dinner; 5-7 p.m., cost $8, Rock Killough & Dixie Flyers; 7 p.m., Gene Watson performs 8:30-10 p.m. Cost is $10 for adults.

Saturday schedule: Music all day, beginning at 9 a.m. Billy Joe Royal; 3 p.m. Jett Williams; 7:30 p.m., John Anderson; 9 p.m. cost is $15 for adults/$8 for children. Admission to the festival on Saturday also includes admission to the Hank Williams Boyhood Home and Museum.

The Hank Williams Festival is basically an outdoor event. There is a protective roof-shelter in case of rain, but there is no reserved seating and everyone should bring a lawn chair.

For information, contact George Rohm at 334-666-2097. For all other festival information, including lodging, call the Georgiana City Hall, 334-376-2396.

Softball legend to visit Ridgeland

On Saturday, May 22, "The King and His court" will visit Ridgeland on their final tour and treat children of all ages to an incredible experience at Hite Wolcott Park at 7 p.m.

This is not royalty from England or Elvis Presley, but King Eddie Feigner. Tickets will be available for $5 a person at the gate.

Seventy-year old Feigner is the undisputed greatest softball pitcher of all times. He has played over 10,000 games, with over 8,600 wins, he has tossed 903 no-hitters and pitched 238 perfect games. His pitches were once clocked at over 110 mph.

"This man is a legend," said George Smith, Tourism Development director, a division of Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development. "Adults who have seen 'The King' are eager to relive the experience with their children."

"The King" probably can't top his 110-mph now, so he has a secret weapon: the first woman player on his four-person "court." For the first time in 54 years there will be a woman playing on the "court" during the 1999-2000 Tour.

The King's wife Anne Marie plays first base, switch hits and has over 20 years of experience.

For information on the event, contact Jim Myrick at 898-0076 or the Ridgeland tourism Commission at 1-800-468-6078.

What to know if you think it's just a boat tow: The difference between boat towing and salvage

As millions of recreational boat owners get ready to launch their vessels this season, knowing the difference between towing and salvage could save them boatloads of money should they need help on the water, says BOAT/U.S., whose TowBOAT/U.S. companies are the national's largest fleet of assistance towing vessels.

Historically and legally, salvage is any voluntary and successful rescue of a boat, its cargo and/or its passengers from a peril at sea. Salvage often results in a "demand" for a percentage of the boat's post-casualty value -- sometimes a considerable amount of money. Towing costs much less and is billed by the hours, averaging $125 per hour.

The distinction between towing and salvage is reflected in the different types of programs available to boaters. Towing assistance, like the pre-paid service available to BOAT/U.S. members through TowBOAT/U.S., provides help for breakdowns and light groundings. The far more expensive salvage claims are covered only by yacht insurance policies.

Since the same marine assistance company often provides both towing and salvage services, it is essential that the boat owner reach an understanding with the marine assistance provider before action is taken, cautions Terri Parrow, BOAT/U.S. vice president for towing assistance.

"TowBOAT/U.S. companies are required to inform the captain of a boat before beginning any work if the procedure is salvage, not towing. If this isn't possible due to wind and sea conditions, the towing company should tell the captain as soon as possible," Parrow said.

However, boaters should not assume they will always be told. Boaters should always ask whether the job is towing or salvage before they accept a tow.

If the answer is "salvage," the boater should ask if the company -- or "salvor" -- will give a fixed price or one based on time and materials before beginning the job. If so, get the price in writing or, if any oral agreement, try to have someone witness it, Parrow suggests.

If the salvor wants to do the job first and says he does not know what the cost will be but will make a salvage claim afterwards, the final charge will be decided one of three ways: negotiation with the boater's insurance company; binding arbitration (a variety of forums exist, including the BOAT/U.S. Salvage Arbitration Program, a low-cost option available to all boat owners, marine assistance and insurance companies); or -- rarely -- through litigation in federal admiralty courts.

If the salvor does not give a price before doing the job, the boater should ask the salvor if he uses or will agree to use the BOAT/U.S. Open Form Yacht Salvage Contract, which assures any claim can go to binding arbitration if negotiation fails. A copy of this contract is available at the BOAT/U.S. website, www.boat-us.com/consumer.

"As long as the situation is not dangerous and not deteriorating, boaters should feel free to look for another company by radio or by calling the BOAT/U.S. 24-hour dispatch service for help at 1-800-391-4869," Parrow said.

"Parrow reminds boaters to review their boat insurance coverage. 'The best protection against a salvage bill is adequate insurance,' she said, noting that boaters should make sure their policy provides for salvage up to the full value of the boat, not a percentage of its value, and that there is no deductible for salvage costs.

Finally, even though the U.S. Coast Guard no longer tows recreational boats unless it's a life-threatening situation, they will help boaters contact commercial assistance and stand by on the radio to make sure they get that help.

"You can ask the coast guard to call the BOAT/U.S. 24-hour dispatch service for you," Parrow said.

Magnolia State Soap Box Derby names new director

Rev. Jerry Beam of Moss Point has been named Derby director of the 8th annual Magnolia State Soap Box Derby. This year's race will be Saturday, June 12 on Main Street in Moss Point. Moss Point is the site of the only sanctioned All-American Soap Box derby in Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama and northwest Florida.

Moss Point active citizens and corporate sponsors, International Paper Co.-Moss Point Mill, and Chevron-Pascagoula Refinery have coordinated a premiere youth racing program over the past seven years.

This has given children between the ages of 9 and 16 an opportunity to learn some of the basic skills of workmanship, the spirit of competition and the perseverance to continue a project once it has begun.

Considering the profusion of organized youth programs available in today's world, the Soap Box Derby is unique in that it encourages closer parent-child activities. This relationship will carry over into other areas as the youth develops confidence and respect with the guidance and encouragement of the parent or guardian.

The completion of the gravity racer reinforces the importance of setting and completing goals while developing such traits as craftsmanship, perseverance, self-confidence and sportsmanship.

Rev. Beam, pastor of Dantzler Memorial First United Methodist Church, is the father of last year's champion, Bill Beam. The experience of sharing and helping Bill with his car, his winning the local race and the pride and pleasure of seeing him compete in the World Championships in Akron, Ohio, was enough to convince Rev. Beam to become an active supporter of this youth activity.

For parents and children interested in participating in this year's race, call the Moss Point Recreation Department at 228-475-7887 and request an information packet.

Consider savings strategies for college

For some time now, we've enjoyed low inflation. But it hasn't disappeared from the scene—especially on college campuses. With annual price increases of 5 percent or more for the past several years, the cost of a college education has shot way up—and it's still climbing.

In fact, if college costs continue to climb at their recent pace, in 18 years you can expect to pay approximately $72,000 for four years at a public school, and $185,000 for a private school.

How can you meet these costs? Here are some suggestions:

Set realistic goals. Try to estimate how much money you'll need for college. Then, calculate the annual rate of return you'll need to achieve on your savings and investments in order to reach your goal. But don't overestimate your expenses—you don't have to come up with the entire amount required for college. Generally speaking, if you can save at least one-third of the total college costs, you and your child should be able to make up the rest through loans or campus jobs.

Save early and save often. Consider starting a disciplined investment plan when your child is still a baby. By giving yourself 18 years to save, you can put away relatively small sums each month and still meet your objectives.

Save in your own name. You may be tempted to put college savings in your children's names to take advantage of their lower tax rates. But these tax benefits could be overshadowed by the potential loss of financial aid. In calculating financial aid packages, colleges usually expect children to spend one-third of their own savings for college costs each year. However, most schools require parents to contribute only about 6 percent of their savings.

Invest for growth. Far too many families save for college by investing entirely in short-term interest-bearing accounts, such as savings accounts, CDs and money-market funds. Although these investments might seem safe, they will likely lose ground to inflation over time. If you really want your money to grow, build a well-diversified portfolio that includes long-term and zero coupon bonds as well as individual stocks and stock mutual funds. Long-term and zero coupon bonds pay better rates than short-term savings and guarantee your principal if held to maturity. Stocks historically have shown a much higher rate of return than any other investment.

Explore government-backed savings programs. Recent tax law changes have opened up some new avenues for college savings. You can now contribute to an education IRA, which allows you to make tax-free withdrawals for college. Other government programs include the Hope Scholarship, which offers tax credits of up to $1,500 a year for the first two years of college, and the Lifetime Learning Credit, which can amount to $1,000 a year. (You can't claim both the Hope Scholarship and the Lifetime Credit in the same year.)

Be prepared ...

College costs can be daunting. But by taking the proper steps, you will be financially prepared for the "big day" — when those first bills come due.

State retirement system to hold board election

The Public Employees' Retirement System of Mississippi (PERS) will conduct an election this year to fill an unexpired term of the Board of Trustees representing state employees. The election will be to complete the term through Dec. 31, 2000, resulting from the retirement of Sam W. Valentine Jr.

Any employee of a state agency who has been a PERS member for at least 10 years is eligible to run. Candidates can qualify by filing petitions with PERS signed by at least 25 state employees who are retirement system members.

Petitions have been mailed to state agencies. State employees who would like to be candidates should check with their agencies' Personnel or Human Resource Office for petitions.

The deadline for filing signed petitions at the PERS Building, 429 Mississippi Street, Jackson, MS 39201-1005, is 5 p.m. June 10. Petitions received after the deadline will be disallowed, even if they are postmarked prior to the deadline.

If no candidate receives a majority in the first election, there will be a runoff among the top two vote getters.

The Retirement System is governed by a 10-member board, including the State Treasurer, one gubernatorial appointee, two state appointees, two retirees and one representative each of public schools and community colleges, municipalities, counties and Institutions of Higher Learning.

With the exception of the State Treasurer and the gubernatorial appointee, all members are elected to staggered six-year terms by the portion of the Retirement System they represent.

Valentine was the senior member of the board, having served since 1984. He retired from the board at the time of his retirement from state service as an employee of the Department of Health, April 30.

Three universities to split tobacco pilot program grant

Three Mississippi universities will split a $1.2 million grant for evaluation work for the Mississippi Tobacco Pilot Program.

Combining their forces as the University Evaluation Group, Jackson State University, Mississippi State University and the University of Mississippi will conduct an overall evaluation. Each school will also evaluate component parts of the program at funding levels as follows:

- Public awareness and media -- Social Science Research Laboratory at University of Mississippi, $300,000

- Community-based interventions -- Mississippi Urban Research Center, Jackson State University, $200,000

- Enforcement to tobacco policies and legislation -- The Stennis Institute of Government, Mississippi State University, $200,000

- School Health Nurse Program -- The Social Science Research Center, Mississippi State University, $300,000.

Grant winners were among 16 applicants for the evaluation work. The Mississippi Legislature during its 1998 Session charged the Mississippi State Department of Health with the evaluation and assessment of all anti-tobacco activities funded through the first two years of the Tobacco Pilot Program.

The Partnership for a Healthy Mississippi administers the program, whose purpose is to create a healthier Mississippi and to reduce tobacco use among Mississippi youths.

Evaluation of the projects funded through the Mississippi Tobacco Pilot Program (MTPP) will serve three purposes:

- Assess the impact of MTPP on youth prevalence, cessation, and environmental tobacco smoke (ETS)

- Enable program directors and advisory groups to modify interventions in progress as a result of data collected

- Identify components of the MTPP which can be replicated in other communities as part of an on-going comprehensive tobacco prevention plan.

The primary goal of the evaluation activities is to determine the association between tobacco prevention/reduction strategies that are science-based and the actual reduction or prevention of youth tobacco use.

Evaluation results will guide future program development and expansion.

received the Outstanding Soloist Trophy.

To follow up their Houston performance, the band traveled to New Orleans April 28 to participate in the Archdiocesan Band Festival. Making its first appearance at this competition in 18 years, the band received straight "superior" ratings.

Woes — crackdown on banners

allowable size of an attached sign is a function of the linear feet of the wall that it's attached to. In this case, Carrigee calculates the wall as 60 feet long. The ordinance would allow a sign that's 90 square feet in that case. Instead, the sign is some 600 square feet.

The company owner declined comment on the matter Friday.

Meanwhile, Carrigee and his staff are coping with enforcement of other provisions of the ordinance that have caused troubles in the past few months -- particularly the issue of banners.

A recent crackdown on the proliferation of banner advertising in the city has drawn some upset business owners to City Council, and prompted the mayor and Carrigee to propose changes to regulations on such temporary signs.

In the meantime, Carrigee has several cases of banner regulation violation lined up for city court -- but he's holding them in abeyance until council takes action on the proposed ordinance revisions. Carrigee said Friday he's working with business owners in the interim period to try to keep the banner problem under control by cooperation.

He and the city's attorney, John Scafide, told council recently that the entire sign ordinance needs a re-write, but there's none in progress at this time. "Right now, all we're trying to do is put out the fires," Carrigee said of violations that pop up.

Carrigee has been to council on several occasions recently, explaining his interpretation of the ordinance and seeking some clarification of council's intentions. He said the furniture store sign was erected during a weekend when his crews weren't on duty, but the company was cited the following Monday and told they would not be allowed to open until the problem sign was taken down or a variance was granted.

Carrigee said he allowed the company to open, however, because it was in compliance with all other aspects of the code, and the owner filed a request for a variance from the ordinance. If the variance is disapproved, Carrigee said the sign will have to come down, or the store will have to close.

The P&Z meeting is set for May 26, at 7:30 p.m. Commission members also will be asked to approve the site plans for construction of a new Union Planters Bank Building on Highway 90.

Shelter — couple wants to help

Artigues, Jr., and he advised them to tell citizens that if they wanted to donate towards the new pen gates, they should make checks payable to the "City of Waveland," with specific instructions that the donation would be used solely for facility repair at the Animal Shelter. Artigues said any question about tax deductibility would be a question between the donor and his or her accountant or

CPA.

If you're interested in donating, make the checks payable to "City of Waveland," 301 Coleman Avenue, Waveland, MS 39576.

Hearing — street renumbering

address problems represent an insurmountable problem for police and fire personnel in general, because the departments have local staff thoroughly familiar with the location of streets and the address trouble spots.

But that's not the case necessarily with ambulance personnel who aren't from Bay St. Louis, he said, and may or may not know the difference between Keller and Keller, for instance. Also, ambulances may be searching for a specific street number only to find that a number 301 address sits next door to a 150 or 420 on the same street.

Council's actions, he said, could be as extensive as impacting 100 percent of the addresses in the city, or just a handful.

Sewer — businesses seek relief

Don Hartzler, the owner of Bay Marina off Washington Street, also complained about his rate hike. Hartzler said he operates a small restaurant and snack area for the campers and boaters who use his marina and campgrounds, but his restaurant nets only about $10,000 a year and those operations only represent about 11 percent of his business. He complained that his monthly sewerage bill went from $35 to $150 a month.

Johnson promised Hartzler, "We'll revisit the issue," and he said the District will meet in a workshop session soon to discuss the rates that were adopted last February.

Arthur Paulk said he wants to invest $4 million and build an automotive repair shop off Hwy. 603 on the west side of Central Avenue, but cannot get a permit to build from the county, although he has obtained a health department permit.

He said county building inspector Willie Gavney said he won't issue a building permit until sewerage lines actually reach his area.

"He's holding up a $4 million project," Paulk charged. "The bank won't loan us the money until we get a permit."

Gauthreaux said there is already a tap across Hwy. 603, and Paulk offered to pay the connection fee to run the line another 600 to 700 feet into his property.

Commissioners told Paulk to go before the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday to ask for relief, since Gavney is appointed by supervisors.

Mark Buchanan said his property was bypassed in the recent extension of sewerage connections into Shoreline Park. He said he has kept his boat there since 1997, and should be charged only $35 for the grinder system, but was told his connection would now cost him $2,500.

Commissioners promised to look into all situations where property owners in Shoreline have complained they should have been counted when the District took the census.

Howard Bass said he has property in Harbor Estates, and wanted to know when he could get permission to install a sewerage holding tank, so he could begin building.

Legislation passed in the recent session will allow the holding tanks on property in certain low-lying areas of the county until sewerage lines are installed, but Commissioners said the bill doesn't go into effect until July 1, and a myriad of details have to be worked out before holding tanks are allowed.

There was some good news at the meeting. Commissioners received two bids from local banks on a temporary $800,000 loan.

The District needs a one-year, low-interest loan to finance engineering and design plans to sewer four more areas in Hancock County in order to attract an $8 million loan from the state revolving fund.

Thursday, Commissioners selected Hancock Bank, which offered the loan to the District at a yearly interest rate of 4.04 percent.

Gauthreaux said the District might not need the entire $800,000, but for the plans, and would use whatever is left for the payback.

In other business, Commissioners rejected all three bids received on plans to build a District office on land behind the Human Resources Center off Longfellow Road.

It marked the second times bids came in over estimates. This time, Gauthreaux said the lowest bid was $191,000, but the District has only about $150,000 available for the office building.

She said Commissioners would discuss alternatives at a future meeting. One possibility being discussed would be to erect the metal building and have the interior completed in phases.

'Jazz in the Pass' festival turns into huge success

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY BENNIE
WEDGWOOD

It was a beautiful afternoon in Pass Christian's War Memorial Park Saturday, May 8. The sky was blue and a cool breeze blowing across the Gulf and through the big oaks, sent the mellow sounds of jazz and the aroma of good food throughout the park.

The mood was relaxed and laid-back casual at this year's "Jazz in the Pass" celebration, part of the city's year-long Tricentennial celebration. Most people congregated under the shade of the big oaks, on lawn chairs, blankets, or were just sitting in the grass. Dancers appeared from time to time, and ranged from toddlers to seniors. Everyone seemed to be moved by the beat of whatever was playing at the time.

A highlight of the day was impromptu performances by the RSVP Second Liners, who began dancing in front of the bandstand, then slowly wound their way through the park, inviting onlookers into the fun.

Music varied from popular to traditional, with a dedication to jazz great,

John Handy, performed by SPICE (Spirited People With Creative Energies). All bands donated their time and creativity.

Organizers were pleased with the turnout, especially Dan Ellis, who said the festival was "bigger and better than what we planned." He gave most of the credit to chairperson Jennie Lou Mintz, who worked for almost a year to organize the celebration.

"Few people realize that a lot of the original jazz started with musicians right here in Pass Christian," Ellis said. "Saxophonist John Handy, pianist, Joe B. Jackson, and the famous Watson Brothers Band were all Pass Christian residents."

Presented plaque

Jennie Lou Mintz, center, who worked a year to organize the "Jazz in the Pass", was presented a plaque of appreciation for all her hard work. From left are, Pass Christian Alderman Leo "Chipper" McDermott and daughter, Emily; Mintz; state Sen. Scottie Cuevas; Dan Ellis; and state Rep. Jim Simpson.

Colorful strutters

The RSVP Second Liners strutted their stuff to an appreciative audience, who turned out at War Memorial Park last Saturday for the "Jazz in the Pass" celebration.

Good food

Greek gyros and lots of other good food was available to the crowds attending the "Jazz in the Pass" celebration at War Memorial Park in Pass Christian.

Babies and seniors

Babies and seniors enjoyed the beautiful weather and the music last Saturday at the "Jazz in the Pass" celebration. Ole Miss to host workshop for art educators

"Reviving the Muse," a week-long workshop designed to enhance K-12 teachers' skills in select areas of the arts, will be conducted June 6-11 at the University of Mississippi.

This challenging workshop for art educators will emphasize nurturing visual creativity via individual and group projects.

Participants will take advantage of the abundant resources of Ole Miss and the Oxford and Lafayette County communities, including museums, galleries, historic homes and the natural landscape.

The workshop's focus will be on learning by discovery and experience. This hands-on approach will involve exploring area resources to enhance the means of visual expression.

Participants will create journals to encompass the world, image and experience, thereby documenting a variety of approaches to visual problem-solving.

The intense schedule, along with the work and accompanying discussions, is designed to recreate the studio experience and provide each participant with concrete tools to enhance the creative process.

The workshop begins at 2 p.m. June 20 and concludes at noon June 25. Tuition is $406, and some tuition scholarships are available. Housing costs are not included in the workshop cost. On-campus housing is available for a nominal fee, and accommodations may be arranged at a variety of off-campus locations convenient to the campus.

This course has been approved for three hours of graduate credit or may be taken as an audit.

For details, registration form, list of available accommodations, tuition scholarships or a Graduate School application, contact the Office of Summer School at 601-232-7621, 209 LaBauve, University, MS 38677-0879. Completed applications may be faxed to 601-232-1535.

Southern Miss announces safe schools initiative

A new initiative at the University of Southern Mississippi aims to provide answers for school personnel facing the threat or the reality of violence and other crimes.

Long before the recent Columbine High School massacre, the 1999 Legislature approved $150,000 to fund USM's Mississippi Safe Schools, Violence and Dropout Prevention Center.

"Considering what happened in Colorado, I think it's very fortuitous we were this far along," said state Sen. Grey Ferris, D-Vicksburg, who sponsored legislation making the center possible.

"I think this program will help better identify children who are at risk to themselves and others."

Ferris, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, joined USM education officials to announce the Safe Schools initiative at a news conference luncheon on the southern Miss campus.

"The focus here will be on dealing with safety issues and preventing dropouts," said the center's executive director, Dr. Johnny R. Purvis, USM professor of educational leadership and research.

Among other plans, the new Southern Miss center will:

- Establish a rapid-response team to deal with school shootings, suicide incidents, bomb threats and other crises.

- Develop a school resource officer training program.

- Establish school security and safety academies for school personnel.

- Hold school security and safety conferences.

- And establish a gang and cult state task force.

"I've been wanting to do that for about five years," Purvis said of the task force.

While Purvis will lead many of the center's activities, much will also be handled by center director Dr. Dewey Blackledge, a veteran public school educator now working with Purvis at Southern Miss as director of the state Department of Education's Regional Service Center.

Ferris, a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, said he thought the Colorado massacre would make smaller school districts acutely aware of the need for crisis planning.

"A crisis such as this is so great you have to have a coordinated effort," he said. "And different crises require different responses."

Ferris said he thought educators realized the need to practice crisis prevention as well as responses -- trying to single out troubled children as early as possible.

"One of the issues that will have to be addressed by the Legislature is the role counselors can play in the elementary years," Ferris said. "Whatever happened with these kids (in Colorado), the probably displayed signs of problems in elementary school."

Ferris said he hopes the Legislature would revisit last year's unsuccessful effort to fund elementary school counselors.

Purvis said the safe schools center's planning was already under way and that programs would be offered after funding becomes available July 1.

"Now we're able to do a lot of things we've always dreamed of doing," he said.

Purvis is nationally recognized as an expert on gang and cult violence and its relationship to student discipline, or management, and strategies for working with violent students. He's worked in 23 states as a consultant for groups addressing gang and cult violence.

His "Gangs, Cults and Violence in the School Setting," now in its fifth year, draws standing-room-only crowds of educators, law enforcement and juvenile justice administrators each summer. This year's conference is set for June 10 at USM's Hattiesburg campus and July 14 at USM's Gulf Park campus in Long Beach.

Purvis participated in a national forum on preventing violence in the nation's schools in July 1993 at the invitation of U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno and Secretary of Education Richard W. Riley.

A year later, he was selected to serve as a consultant in the Technical Assistance and Support Program under the National Institute of Justice, the research arm of the U.S. Department of Justice.

For information on the Mississippi Safe Schools, Violence and Dropout Prevention Center at USM, call Blackledge at 601-266-6777.

YOUTH

Area youths perform with Slidell youth orchestra

Eight area youths have been performing with the Slidell Community and Youth Orchestra. The students are Brennan Besancon on tenor saxophone, Anna Brannin on alto saxophone, Samantha Neal on violin, Kevin Messer on trumpet, Shawn Negrotto on French horn, Dustin Tasker on alto saxophone, Lauren Veach on flute and Ryan Veach on alto Saxophone.

The orchestra is composed of area adults and youth from the greater St. Tammany Parish region. Under the musical direction of Dr. Frankie Kelly, they meet every Tuesday evening at Clearwood Junior High School in Slidell.

Kelly is an assistant professor of music at Southeastern Louisiana University in Hammond.

Community education of St. Tammany Parish School Board supports the orchestra, which begins in October and continues through May. This is the 13th year the musical group has been in existence. Some 60 members strong, the group provides an opportunity for people of all ages to interact through music.

In March the orchestra performed for fourth grade students in St. Tammany Parish schools. The annual event allows students in this grade to learn about the different musical instruments as well as enjoy the musical arrangements.

A community concert was held May 2 in Pottle Auditorium on the campus of southeastern Louisiana University.

A second community concert will be held Thursday, May 6 at 7:30 p.m. in Aldersgate Methodist church in Slidell.

For information about the concert, contact Linda Sisson at 504-781-5205.

Liquid Solutions Referral Center

CASH REWARDS FOR REFERRING®

No Selling No Working No Kidding!

Earning Money Was Never Easier!

It may sound too good to be true, but believe it...it is true! Pharmaceutical laboratories, Inc., the developer and manufacturer of the Liquid Solutions line of products, has been in business for 14 years and is recognized as the leader in liquid nutritional products. The Company has sold some of its products to the leading chain drug stores for years, but recently decided to make their entire line available exclusively through a totally new method called Referral Marketing.

Liquid Solutions Referral Centers are the key to this exciting new concept and the Bay St. Louis/Waveland area has been chosen to be among the first to have a Referral Center open!

What is Referral marketing?

Simply stated, any business, individual, or fund-raiser can earn a huge 20%, just by referring people into the Bay St. Louis Center. It's really that easy and there is no limit to the number of people you can refer or the amount of money you can earn.

The Ultimate Fund-Raiser

How many fund-raising programs can you think of? Obviously there are too many to count. The products typically sold during those fund-raisers are candy, cookies, school logo items, greeting cards, car washes, raffle tickets, etc. With regular fund-raisers, when the drive ends - so do the funds. And, the products sold are not usually the type of products that people normally purchase. How about a fund-raiser that offers nutritional products that people purchase every day with no inventory requirement on the part of the organization? How about a fund-raiser that never ends? The money keeps coming in month after month. Referral Marketing offers this opportunity for the first time. It's simple: The fund-raising organization refers people to the Center where they purchase the Liquid Solutions products of their choice and a check for twenty percent of all purchases is sent to the organization every month.

Liquid Solutions® ♦ Vitamins ♦ Herbals ♦ Aloe Vera

Great-Tasting Liquid Nutritional Products That Really Work!

♦ ENERGY ♦ WEIGHT LOSS ♦ SPORTS ♦ GENERAL HEALTH ♦ SKIN CARE ♦

What is the liquid advantage?

Recent studies have called into question whether pills, capsules, and tablets dissolve quickly enough in the human body to be effective. When a vitamin, mineral, or herb pill is swallowed, it goes into the stomach where it must be broken down before it can be digested. "If a pill does disintegrate in the digestive tract, that improves the chances that nutrients will be absorbed by the body. Most manufacturers either don't want to do the tests (for disintegration), or prefer to guarantee the vitamin via the brand name." UC. BERKELEY WELLNESS LETTER-NOV. '98.

Why Liquid Solutions Liquids?

Not all liquid nutritional products are created equal. The chemist doesn't simply add water and stir. It is no small task to hold the nutrients in solution and deliver label claims. Liquid Solutions are great-tasting liquid nutritional products for consumers who are looking for an alternative to pills, tablets, and capsules. The Liquid Solutions line of products are formulated for fast efficient absorption. They do not need to be broken down by the gastrointestinal tract before they can be absorbed by the body. They are readily bioavailable.

Sustainable Forestry photography contest

Mississippi Forestry Association is sponsoring a statewide Sustainable Forestry in Mississippi photography contest.

MFA is looking for photographs that best illustrate principles of the Sustainable Forestry Initiative (SFI), a national program highlighting sound forest stewardship.

Contest categories are: 1) Working in the forest—highlighting people who make their livelihood in forestry work, such as logging, tree planting, timber cruising, etc.; and 2) Sustainable forestry in action, depicting how managed forests support benefits such as clean water, wildlife, recreation, etc.

MFA is offering equal prizes in both categories: first place, $500; second, $250 and third place, $100.

There will be a youth prize offered in each of the two contest categories. The prize will be $100 to one youth in each category. Maximum age is 18 for the youth prize.

Deadline for entries is Aug. 15. Contest is open to photographers of all ages, both amateur and professional. Entries may be color or black and white. Format may be either slides or (at least) 8x10 prints. Photos must be taken in Mississippi.

Contestants may submit a total of three entries in each category for a total of six entries per person, maximum.

All entries, both negatives and prints, will become property of Mississippi Forestry Association.

Winning entries may be highlighted in Tree Talk, MFA's quarterly magazine or used in other MFA publications, such as brochures. Winning entries will be matted and auctioned at MFA's annual meeting in Tunica in October.

For information, contact Mississippi Forestry Association, 620 N. State St., Suite 201, Jackson, MS 39202, 601/354-4936.

Are all chemicals bad?

By James L. Cummins, Jr.
All too often the word "chemical" has a bad reputation. Yet, everything — and I do mean everything — is made of chemicals.

Water, which is made of two parts hydrogen and one part oxygen, is a chemical. Gasoline, which also is made of hydrogen and oxygen, with a little carbon added to it, is a chemical.

I know, most of the time people are complaining about chemicals, pesticides and sometimes fertilizers. However, we seldom think of the fact that proper pesticide and fertilizer use saves wildlife habitat. In a world with an increasing population, more food and fiber is not only needed, it is demanded.

To achieve that objective, we have two choices — we can produce more food and fiber on existing land, or we can utilize other lands — lands that are currently serving as valuable habitat for wildlife.

I'm not saying that we can't have wildlife and highly productive agricultural and timber lands; the rice industry is one example of having both. However, without maximizing production on existing land, encroachment by these increasing needs will decrease the amount of habitat available for wildlife.

The use of chemicals allows the food and fiber that is needed to be produced on the minimum number of acres.

If we could not increase soil productivity through fertilization, many more acres would be needed to feed and clothe a hungry and cold world.

For example, in many parts of the world, especially in areas with poor economies, such as the third world and parts of the former Soviet Union, people are much more interested in feeding their family than protecting rain forests or other types of habitat that wildlife need.

People only care about the environment after they have met basic needs (i.e., food, clothing and shelter).

The world is becoming more and more developed each year, and it is demanding a quality and abundant food supply.

Most people do not associate pesticide and fertilizer use with conserving wildlife habitat — they usually associate it with degrading habitat.

If our nation's farmers were using the same farming practices that were in place 40 years ago, it would take an area 15 times the size of Mississippi to meet that demand.

Am I trying to say that all pesticides are good for the environment? Absolutely not! That is why DDT and toxaphene are not on the market today. Most pesticides that do exist today have to meet strict guidelines of the Environmental Protection Agency. Most of them break down in the environment to a non-toxic chemical.

Through continuing research (i.e., genetic, growth, etc.), we will make sure that we can meet the needs of a growing world and do it in a manner that will leave the land in as good or better shape than when we found it. Isn't that the way it should be?

James L. Cummins, Jr. is executive director of the Mississippi Fish and Wildlife Foundation in Stoneville. Known as "Wildlife Mississippi," the foundation is a non-profit, conservation organization founded to conserve, restore and enhance fish, wildlife and plant resources throughout Mississippi.

Wildlife Mississippi receives national award

The Ag-Earth Partnership, a national coalition working to raise public awareness about conservation in agriculture, recently recognized the Mississippi Fish and Wildlife Foundation, or Wildlife Mississippi as it is commonly called, as one of 11 marquee successes for 1999 during the Earth Day Agricultural Celebration on April 22 on the National Mall in Washington, D.C.

The partnership selected the Foundation from more than 100 nominations of projects or individuals based on innovation and leadership to protect the nation's precious natural resources.

"We are pleased to give national recognition to Wildlife Mississippi for this locally led partnership effort," said David Graves, president of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, on behalf of the Ag-Earth Partnership.

According to Peyton Self, President of Wildlife Mississippi, "Our conservation philosophy of enhancing and restoring the environment from the standpoint of economics is working and people are taking note. Wildlife Mississippi is committed to being an effective catalyst that will always continue enhancing and restoring the Magnolia State's magnificent fish and wildlife resources for years.

This award from the Ag Earth Partnership highlights our efforts and shows that the Foundation has already become a model for America."

Wildlife Mississippi is fostering a long-term partnership that demonstrates the compatibility between farming and fish and wildlife conservation. Rural Mississippi benefits economically from the outreach to farmers and landowners.

The Foundation and its sister organization, Mississippi Outfitters Association, assist with conservation programs that help diversify farm income through for-profit fish and wildlife-associated tourism. In return, increased economic activity provides revenues to allow the private landowner to offer more protection of fish and wildlife.

In partnership with the National Resources Conservation Service, the Foundation planted 622,120 hardwood seedlings on 2,060 acres in the winter of 1998. Wildlife Mississippi is also providing seed to plant 18,424 acres of food plots for wildlife in 1999.

Wildlife Mississippi has a conservation philosophy based on three basic principles: 1) Incentive protect, restore and enhance fish, wildlife and plant habitat; 2) Conservation can thrive while respecting private property rights and 3) More effective and responsive government policies will enable more on-the-ground conservation to take place.

Marine Discovery Camp set at USMGC

A marine adventure is planned for students in grades 6-12 this summer at the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Marine Discovery Camp is set for July 11-16 and is based at USMGC's Gulf Park campus in Long Beach. The camp provides an opportunity for students to visit, observe and become familiar with the barrier islands and estuaries through first-hand experience. Participants also collect and identify marine organisms.

Dr. Lawrence J. Bellipanni, assistant professor of biological sciences at USM, is camp director.

Cost is $485, which covers all instruction materials, field trips, food and lodging.

A Quiet Evening

Places in the Heart I

*A quiet evening,
A peaceful time,
A life worth living,
Because you're mine*

I compose my quatrain to remind myself that two people who care for each other can create a very private world, colored by shared memory. This has inspired me to create a three-piece print collection celebrating the creative power of love. Each print illuminates a line in the poem - A Quiet Evening, A Peaceful Time, A Life Worth Living.

We began with the passionate fire of sunset, the graceful shelter of a magnificent weeping willow beside a quaint stone cottage, the Edenic tranquility of a pristine stream flowing through a lavish flower garden. Here is A Quiet Evening born in the hearts of lovers.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

That headline with numerous variations festooned the front page of virtually every newspaper in the U.S. the morning after the Yankee Clipper hung up his spikes for the last time.

Sports enthusiasts as well as many who do not cotton to sports, or at least not to baseball, felt a bit diminished by the passing of the 84-year-old Hall of Famer. Transcending sports, Jolting Joe found a niche in the hearts of most.

Perhaps the most amazing statistic about Joe DiMaggio as a baseball player was not his 56-game hitting streak. Rather, it had to be the fact that he hit 361 career home runs, yet, through a slugger, struck out a total of only 369 times.

For 13 seasons, the Yankee Clipper was the class of the yankees, who, of course, were the class of the sports world. It is extremely rare that adjectives such as exquisite grace, elegance and artful proficiency are applied to an athlete.

Joe's professional integrity reached beyond the ball park to everyone and everything he touched, and drew people as a magnet would. His only serious drawback was his aloofness which sometimes alienated people, especially journalists.

"The Big Guy's" status as a celebrity took a quantum leap when he entered into a star-crossed, 10-month marriage with Marilyn Monroe in 1954. Romance, elegance and celebrity wrapped themselves around him in storybook fashion. Immortalized in the song, "Jolting Joe DiMaggio," in Hemingway's "The Old Man and the Sea," in Paul Simon's "Please Mrs. Robinson," in dozens of films and Broadway shows. Joe was a true living legend, even internationally.

All that said, where do you personally fit in on the spectrum of the question: "What is your American Dream?"

If Joe DiMaggio embodied the American Dream, according to just about all the accounts of his life and fortune, to what extent do you agree with that assessment? In other words, would you like your life and fortune to be somewhat like his?

Considering Joe's two crashes in marriage and the absence of further meaningful romantic relationships in his life, does he embody for you what you would like to have in life? How close did he come to defining your American Dream?

Do you feel about Joe the way a woman felt about Ingrid Bergmann whose life was depicted as tragic because of her failed marriages and poor relationships? "I want that kind of tragedy in my life," the woman observed.

Is your American Dream to have a good job, a fine home, a meaningful marriage with children growing up in a quality environment and school? Perhaps a little acclaim, if not fame?

It's no knock on Joe that he scaled the pinnacle of baseball greatness. Au contraire, Jesus' "I came that they might have life and have it to the full" (John 10:10) definitely urges us to be all we can be in whatever we undertake.

Leadership changes

Rev. Jack Loflin, a retired United Methodist pastor and former Program Council director, is shown leading a recent spiritual development event at Main Street United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis, titled "To Be Or Not To Be." Rev. Loflin discussed the recent changes in thinking about leadership, preparation of leaders for the future, and providing leadership in long-range planning. Loflin also led a Sunday afternoon session

St. Paul Carnival Association sets election

The St. Paul's Carnival Association of Pass Christian will hold its annual general membership and election of officers meeting at 7 p.m. Tues., May 18, in the St. Paul's cafeteria, 151 East Scenic Drive.

At the meeting all committee chairpersons will give reports on the recent carnival season, and there will be the election of officers and trustees for next year.

All members of the carnival association are encouraged to attend so the association can 'wrap up' this year's season and begin planning for next year, said Wendy L. Allard, spokesman.

Talking and walking

Christianity takes some hits because many followers of Christ do not live up to their profession. Their walk does not match their talk. Their lives do not match their confession.

The basic Christian confession is simple. "If you confess with your mouth Jesus as Lord, and believe in your heart that God raised Him from the dead, you will be saved" (Romans 10:9).

Jesus was aware problems would arise among those who confess His name but fail to live as they should. He issued this warning. "Not everyone who says to Me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father who is in heaven. Many will say to Me on that day, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in Your name, and in Your name cast out demons, and in Your name perform many miracles?' And then I will declare to them, 'I never knew you; depart from Me, you who practice lawlessness'" (Matthew 7:21-23).

The lawless live contrary to God's rules for life and happiness. The godly vindicate their confession with loving obedience. Jesus puts it this way. "If you love Me, you will keep My commandments" (John 14:15). Is Christ the guide, example, and strength of our lives? We must follow His lead, mimic His example, and live by the power of His spirit.

What is your American Dream?

Whether fame comes or not, most important is the kind of thing Joe got involved with recently in Hollywood, Florida, establishing a children's wing at Memorial Regional Hospital. Somehow, the American Dream has to fit into the formula of Jesus, who outlined the real Hall of Fame: "Do not rejoice because the spirits are subject to you, but rejoice because your names are written in heaven." (Luke 10:20)

Negotiating With God

I once believed that if I requested something from God, that I should give Him something in return. I would promise God that if things turned out my way, I would do something for Him. Perhaps, I could say some special prayers every day, or I would promise to be a better person by not sinning anymore. And although I never seemed to keep my promise, God was always faithful and got me through the various ordeals I was faced with. Our Lord doesn't want more from us than just for each of us to be the best that we can be and to love and trust Him. God knows that we are sinful and weak and although He hates sin, He loves the sinner, and desires. God wants only what is right and good for us. Our offering to our Lord should be a devoted loving heart and our unending loyalty. The Bible tells us to ask and you shall receive, seek and you will find; knock, and the door will be opened to you.

Think carefully before you promise an offering to God.

$70 area military project moves forward

U. S. Rep. Gene Taylor announced that the U.S. House Subcommittee on Military Installations and Facilities has taken the initial step to authorize several military projects totaling $70 million that are important to south Mississippi.

Taylor, said the authorization for military construction and family housing funds for Fiscal Year 2000 projects will now be taken up by the full House Armed Services Committee.

When the final defense authorization is passed by the House and the Senate, it will be sent to the President for his signature.

Contained in this legislation are important military construction projects at Keesler Air Force Base, Seabee Base, Camp Shelby and the Stennis Space Center.

At the Seabee Base in Gulfport, the Military Installations and Facilities Subcommittee provided $12.86 million for a project to construct new barracks for its enlisted personnel.

Phase 1 of the project was funded in FY '99.

Taylor said, "The Navy estimated that construction of this project will not only improve on-base housing at the Seabee Base, but will save the taxpayers $6 million in repair costs to their existing barracks facilities."

This bill contained an additional $6.31 million to convert the top four floors of the existing

This bill contained an additional $6.31 million to convert the top four floors of the existing Bachelor Enlisted Quarters for advanced school students from open-bay barracks to two-person suites.

Included for Keesler is $7.1 million for the construction of a 1,500 person Student Dining Facility, and $19.9 million for a new Student Dormitory Complex.

The Subcommittee authorized $9.6 million of funding to build the Navy Small Craft Instruction and Technical Training School. This school will be part of the Navy Special Forces' Small Boat Unit-22 which is located at the Stennis Space Center.

These funds will provide student berthing, dining facility, classrooms, labs, officers and supply warehouse.

At Camp Shelby, $14.8 million was included in the measure for the third and final phase of the Mississippi Army National Guard's multi-purpose tank range complex.

Also known as the G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery Tank Training Complex, this project was the highest priority for the Mississippi National Guard.

"These projects are great news for South Mississippi," said Taylor. "Several critical needs have been met through the passage of this legislation."
